Ruperto's journey began in the slums of Manila, where he and his family lived in a small shack with no running water or electricity. As a child, he was often bullied and teased for his small size. But Ruperto had a dream: to become a boxer.

With the help of his family and friends, Ruperto began training at a local boxing gym. He quickly showed a natural talent for the sport, and soon began winning fights. As he progressed through the ranks, Ruperto faced越来越 tough competition. But he never gave up on his dream, and eventually earned a shot at the bantamweight world title.

In 2015, Ruperto faced off against the reigning bantamweight champion, Shinsuke Yamanaka. Yamanaka was a formidable opponent, and many people doubted that Ruperto had what it takes to beat him. But Ruperto proved them all wrong. In a stunning upset, he knocked out Yamanaka in the 10th round to win the world title.
