I am an adventurer. I can't remember a time when I didn't feel pulled by the lure of mountains and rivers, wide-open prairies, and distant, unseen lands. That yearning for exploration and adventure was planted in me as a child, when I would spend hours exploring the woods behind my house. As I grew older, my adventures became more ambitious, and I eventually found myself climbing mountains, kayaking rivers, and sailing across oceans.

Now, I am excited to share my stories of adventure and exploration in my new memoir, My Life of High Adventure. In this book, I take readers on a journey through my life, from my early childhood to my present-day adventures. I share stories of climbing some of the world's most famous mountains, including Mount Everest, K2, and Aconcagua. I describe kayaking some of the world's most challenging rivers, including the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon and the Zambezi River through Victoria Falls.

But My Life of High Adventure is about more than just climbing mountains and kayaking rivers. It is also about the people I have met along the way, the challenges I have overcome, and the lessons I have learned about life, adventure and myself. I am a firm believer that some of the greatest lessons in life are learned in the mountains and the sea, and I hope that by sharing my stories I can inspire others to get outside and explore their own boundaries.

I hope you will join me on this incredible journey of adventure and self-discovery, as I share my life and the lessons I've learned along the way. Get your copy of My Life of High Adventure today, and let me help ignite your own spirit of exploration.
